Adam Bernander is a Fox Valley native, having grown up in Green Bay. After earning his Juris Doctorate at Marquette University, Adam served as a law clerk to judges in Brown and Outagamie County Circuit Courts.

Prior to entering private practice, Adam worked with the Brown County Support Agency. He has worked at Herrling Clark for more than five years, serving as senior counsel at the firm. He is a member of the firm’s family law practice and has more than 14 years experience working with individuals experiencing divorce, separation, or familial issues.

Adam is motivated in his practice by the opportunity to help people navigate through what might be the most emotionally trying experience of their life.

In addition to his State Bar of Wisconsin membership, Adam is a member of various local bar organizations in addition to the Honorable Robert J. Parins Legal Society of Northeastern Wisconsin.
